In reviewing the Alphabetical Catalogue for the purpose of forming the Systematic Index, typographical and other errors have been occasionally detected, notwithstanding the preparation of the manuscript from a careful inspection of the books themselves, and a severe revision of the press. With mistakes of the Catalogue, the Reader is requested not to confound the unsettled and often uncouth orthography of former ages or the whimsical peculiarities of individual writers. Of the errors which have been discovered, all that seem to deserve particular notice are contained in the following list.
